Description

phpDatabase.net is an open source pure php database script. You can use it for your application as light weight database. It implements basic database functions like creating and dropping database; creating, changing and dropping tables and sequences; selecting, inserting, updating and deleting data from tables; automatic locking of files, so simultanous changing the data is possible.Transaction processing, commiting or rolling back of made changes,default auto commiting mode. For all of this you only need to download one php Script , include it and start to use its functions in your own php Application.
