Description

PHPlist is a set of PHP pages that implement a simple mailinglist system. It uses Mysql for storing the information. Particular aspects of the system include posting to the mailinglist via a webpage. It is thus a kind of "announcements" list. It can deal with a very large email address lists. Users can sign up to multiple lists. If a message is sent to multiple lists, they will only receive one copy of the email and not as many as the number of lists they are subscribed to. Geographical information. If people sign up, they can identify the geographical location they're in allowing messages to be sent only to a subset of these.
